

Photo Reportage

Mike Köppe

Colours of Prague

Prague is a city loved by the masses. Every year, up to ten million people flock to the Czech capital, making it the fourth most popular European city among travelers after London, Paris, and Rome.

The charming streets, rich history, and laid-back culture that draw in tourists are all perks of living here, but we who call this magnificent metropolis home see it for more than just its holiday-destination appeal. Prague is also a city of great diversity, brimming with innovators, entrepreneurs, and progressive spirits.

Colours of Prague is a social-art project celebrating these people. They are the individuals that strive to make Prague and the wider community a more creative, visionary, and open-minded place through different initiatives.

The project's activities are designed to connect people and foster dialogues where shared knowledge, thoughts, and experiences inspire participants to bring innovative ideas to the table.

But it doesn't stop there. Colours of Prague and its partners also support Smiling Crocodile, a non-profit organisation which enables children with special needs in disadvantaged situations to enjoy life through various fun, educational programs and integration with the world around them.

Get inspired by reading the stories of some of those who are involved. Perhaps you will become one of them, because "it starts with you."

You can find Colours of Prague at
Facebook/coloursofprague

Photos by Mike Köppe

Assem (Saudi Arabia)

Kraig (USA)

